THE NEB LIBRARY

INTRODUCTION

The National Energy Board is a regulatory agency that deals with energy matters relating to oil, natural gas, and electricity. The functions of the Board involve decisions and advice to the federal government that substantially affect Canada's energy sector. The NEB Library is open to the public and plays an important role in support of Board regulatory and advisory activities as an information resource centre. Although its primary responsibility is to provide information support to the Board and its staff, the NEB Library also provides the public with access to information concerning Board activities and other related energy matters. The following describes the resources and services it provides.

THE NEB LIBRARY COLLECTION

The NEB Library is located on the 9th floor of the Board's offices at 473 Albert Street in Ottawa. Although small, the Library contains a variety of material covering a broad range of subjects that reflect the diverse interests of the Board. It maintains a technically-oriented collection of some 7500 books, reports, and documents, and subscribes to over 500 periodicals. The focus of the collection is on energy and related subject areas, with particular emphasis given to matters concerning oil, gas, and electricity. Many other topics relating to finance, economics, management, computer technology, and law are included in the collection.

As a regulatory agency, the Board conducts many public hearings on proposed energy projects, pipeline tolls, and other matters within its jurisdiction. The Board obtains a wealth of unique information on energy matters through the public hearing process. The NEB Library maintains a comprehensive collection of all hearing documents from current and past NEB hearings. It also serves as a public reading room for such documents which are discussed further in the next section of this bulletin.

The Library's holdings include some 1000 reference volumes, a broad collection of federal statutes and regulations, the statutes of most provinces, parliamentary papers, several series of Canadian, British, and American legal case reports, and decisions from several provincial regulatory bodies. The Library also subscribes to approximately 15 newspapers, and to over 100 series of statistical publications issued by Statistics Canada.

Of special interest are the following features of the NEB Library:

- a sizeable collection of annual reports from Canadian and American companies, utilities, and government bodies associated with the energy field, which dates back in many cases to 1959.
- an historical collection dating back to 1931 of opinions and decisions of the Federal Power Commission of the United States.
- a sizeable collection of FERC Reports which contain summaries of precedential opinions, findings, orders, declarations, and notices of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission of the United States which has replaced the Federal Power Commission and assumed a number of its functions in the late 1970s.
- a selection of publications from the Energy Information Administration (EIA) of the United States Department of Energy (DOE) providing statistical data on U.S. energy production, consumption, prices, resource availability, and projections of energy supply and demand.

REFERENCE DOCUMENTS

The reference section of the NEB Library includes almanacs, directories, atlases, maps, encyclopedias, dictionaries, yearbooks and handbooks. Some energy-related reference items of particular interest include:

- Basic Petroleum Data Book. American Petroleum Institute. (Updated 3 times per year)
- Dictionnaire de l'Énergie: Glossaire International Illustré, Atlas et Annuaire Statistique de Références sur l'Énergie. 1979.
- Canadian Energy Program Reporter. CCH Canadian Ltd. (Updated monthly)

- International Petroleum Encyclopedia. (Published yearly)
- Europa Yearbook: A World Survey. (Published yearly)
- Canadian Oil and Gas Handbook. (Published yearly)

Reference documents may be consulted by all NEB Library patrons, but are not available for loan outside the Board.

STATISTICS

Certain statistical reports produced by the Board are available for public viewing in the NEB Library. Information Bulletin No. 5 — "The Board's Publications" provides a list of the reports current at the time it was issued on 12 April 1984.

The Library also has a limited series of Statistics Canada publications. A full collection is available in the Statistics Canada Library.

MICROFORMS

The NEB Library holds a small microform collection of recent Board annual reports, Reasons for Decision and exhibits from certain hearings, some statistical references, and several technical journals. The latter include: the Oil and Gas Journal, Oilweek, the Pipeline and Gas Journal, and the Public Utilities Fortnightly. These documents are available on either microfilm or microfiche, and recent issues are available in paper copy as well.

Two microform reader-printers are provided for Library patrons. There is a nominal charge for copies to the public.

HEARING DOCUMENTS

Hearing documents include hearing exhibits and transcripts and the Board's report on its findings.

Hearing exhibits include applications, all supporting material filed by applicants regarding their applications, all documents filed by parties who formally intervene in the proceedings, and all documents that have been issued by the Board concerning the proceeding. Documents issued by the Board include press releases, deficiency letters, hearing orders, memoranda of guidance, information requests, exhibit lists and the Board's Reasons for Decision.

A list of exhibits is prepared shortly before the opening date of a hearing. It provides the number that has been assigned by the Board to each exhibit and a brief description of the item. It is revised as new exhibits are filed during the course of a proceeding. For each hearing the exhibits are maintained in the NEB Library according to the exhibit list. The list provides a convenient means of locating particular documents.

Exhibits from hearings may be viewed in the Library but are not available for loan outside the Board. Self-serve photocopier facilities are available at a nominal charge. (When a hearing is in progress, a copy of its exhibit list may be obtained free of charge from the Court Clerk, and copies of many of the documents filed in the hearing may be obtained from the Board's Hearing Registry.)

Transcripts for each hearing are prepared by a court reporting firm which provide a verbatim record of the hearing proceedings in the language (English or French) in which evidence was given. Copies may be purchased from the court reporting firm or viewed in the Library. Transcripts may not be reproduced, nor are they available on loan from the Library.

After each public hearing, the Board issues a report that sets out its findings and decision on the matter heard. Most public hearings involve applications to the Board. The reports issued for this type of hearing are referred to as Reasons for Decision. A list of all Reasons for Decision and other reports issued by the Board concerning public hearings is kept in the NEB Library for consultation. The list also identifies the certificates of public convenience and necessity, licences, or orders that the Board has issued in connection with each hearing.

NON-HEARING DOCUMENTS

Many documents related to non-hearing activities by the Board are available for viewing by the public in the NEB Library. They include the Board's annual reports, the Regulatory Agenda, speeches by Board Members and staff, a list of pipeline incidents, news releases, information bulletins, statistical reports produced by staff, and several types of applications normally dealt with by the Board on a non-hearing basis.

HOW TO OBTAIN BOARD PUBLICATIONS

Copies of almost all publications issued by the Board are available in both English and French and, generally, are free of charge. Information Bulletin No. 5 — "The Board's Publications" describes in more depth the various types of publications the Board issues and how to obtain copies of them.
